A Wednesday's Child Creates Art at T-Shirt Construction Co.™

Atlanta, GA – August 24, 2005 – Although the nursery rhyme states that “Wednesday’s Child is full of woe”, the program Wednesday’s Child, which airs each Wednesday and Sunday on WAGA Fox 5 Atlanta, is full of hope for children with special needs – hope that they will find adoptive parents.

T-Shirt Construction Co.™ was proud to host Dixie, an 11-year-old girl who loves arts and crafts, and likes math, science, swimming and music (but not country).

Fox 5 News Anchor Amanda Davis introduced the segment by stating, “We’re doing major construction in tonight’s Wednesday’s Child, but forget hammers and nails – Dixie’s tools of choice – comfy cotton and vibrant paints.”

While at the studio, Dixie drew an angel with magic ink pens. She said she chose an angel because “it represents family... angels save people.” Her drawing was transferred on to a t-shirt she got to take home. Dixie also got to stencil her very own tote bag. She said that she likes to be an artist because there are no rules.

The show aired on Fox 5 on August 24, 2005.
